

In the Cool Beans Café each table has three legs and each chair has four legs. Each customer and each of the five staff members has two legs. There are four chairs at each table. At one point during the day, two-thirds of the chairs are occupied by customers and there are 229 legs altogether in the café. How many tables does the café have?